Headline:
Persistent heavy rain associated with Storm Christoph. Flood risk.

Today:
Heavy or torrential rain continues through the morning, with a continued flood risk. The best of any drier interludes in the afternoon. Mild, but possibly wintry showers later in the north as temperatures drop. Windy and risks of coastal gales. Maximum temperature 12 deg C (54 deg F).

Tonight:
Further heavy rain sweeps across the country, clearing by late evening. Showers, possibly wintry, and clearer conditions to follow. Winds remain strong and risk of gales in exposed areas. Minimum temperature 3 deg C (37 deg F).

Thursday:
Colder with scattered wintry rain and sunny spells. Most frequent showers in the afternoon. Strong winds, gradually ease along with the rain, leaving a cold and clear night. Maximum temperature 8 deg C (46 deg F).

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:
Cold and breezy throughout, with risk of ice developing overnight. Clear spells with blustery and wintry showers Friday. Cloudy and further showers Saturday. Bands of heavy rain Sunday.
